Cohort Programs:

Social Innovation Exploration (SIE)

SIE welcomes first year students into the social innovation and entrepreneurship community while introducing the MIT PKG Public Service Center as the entryway to public service and meaningful social change.

FPOP

Boston Summer of Service (BSOS)

Create community with MIT undergraduates engaged in PKG Social Impact Internships during the summer. Members of the BSOS community live together, reflect on their experiences through weekly dinners, and receive MIT housing to support their summer experiences.

PKG IAP : Health

Gain real-world experience in the health sector working full-time with organizations like Boston Medical Center's Autism Program and Boston VA Medical Center. Explore social equity and disability justice as you support staff research, create resources, interact with patients, and participate in staff meetings.

Internship Programs:

Community-based Federal Work-Study

Federal Work-Study enables eligible undergraduate and graduate MIT students to be paid to apply their unique skills, talents and interests to help address complex social and environmental challenges with nonprofit and government agencies in the US.

 Rolling Applications

Social Impact Internships (SII)

Explore modes of social change, apply your studies to "real-world" challenges, and strengthen your network and resume through funded internships with nonprofits, government agencies, and social enterprises.

Indigenous Communities Internships (ICI)

ICI is a one-month in-person and virtual program for MIT undergraduates. Students support indigenous social impact entrepreneur while being exposed to modern topics, including food, data, and tribal sovereignty.

Build-Your-Own Adventure:

IDEAS Social Innovation Challenge

IDEAS enables student-led teams to apply their education and expertise to address social and environmental challenges around the world. MIT students recruit a team from anywhere in the world and develop a creative solution in partnership with impacted stakeholders. IDEAS teams benefit from a supportive body of reviewers, mentors, and funding ranging from $1,000 – $20,000.

PKG Fellowships

Fellowships support your work with community-focused organizations: nonprofits, government offices, aid agencies, schools, for-profit social enterprises, student-initiated service enterprises, and others.

Fellows typically receive a stipend, which helps cover living and travel expenses.
